Intern Coordinator
Divine Style Team
Washington, DC, VA

Dear Intern Coordinator,

I recently discovered the open internship posting for the stylist internship. I have a prior experience in both retail and customer service, as well as an enthusiastic desire to develop these skills further within the retail world. I believe that these qualifications would make me an ideal intern and an asset to this team. I am interested because I believe that I possess these and several traits that are essential to satisfying Divine Style's customer base. I am extremely motivated and detail oriented, I truly enjoy giving customers the best experience possible and I believe that makes me a perfect fit for Divine Style. I can't wait to apply all my skills I have learned and perfect them even more by interning with this company. My two and a half years at Pitaya has familiarized me with sales, conflict-resolution, and customer relations. One of the duties that come with this position is to develop style to match goals, personality and lifestyle. I am a huge believer that fashion and identity are blended together. I like being a visionary, not following the trends but starting them. I believe that my interpersonal skills, inspiration and prior customer service skills will really help me shine with this internship. The skills I have developed thus far throughout classes and experience have prepared me to take on this role and help maintain the value of this brand. I am looking forward to discuss the internship opportunity further and demonstrating the relevance of my skill set. You will see that my commitment to attending work on time, having outstanding organization and being a team player make me ideal for this position. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Emma Watts
